A SEASON'S PLEASURE.

What It Cost One Woman In Peace of Mind and Comfort.

Mary Makepeace sat down in her favorite chair in her own room and threw her head back, with a long sigh. "No words can tell how glad I am that I've made my last visit for the summer," she said. "Now I shall have some peace, not to mention pleasure."

"My dear!" said her mother reproachfully. "I mean it," returned Mary. "Of course I like change of scene, but I am tired of adapting my whole life to others, as I am expected to do as a welcome guest."

"My dear!" said her mother again. "Think how kind everybody has been to you."

"They meant to be—they were kind," Mary said wearily. "yet I feel as if I had barely escaped with my life, and you will admit that is not just the right kind of after feeling."

"Let me tell you, mother," Mary continued. "At the Fosters' I changed my hours for rising, for retiring and for eating my meals. At the Lanes' I changed father's politics—for of course I haven't any of my own—to please Mr. Lane, and I had all I could do to keep from changing my religion to please Mrs. Lane."

"At the Jenkins' I changed all my views about what constitutes diversion to suit the family in general. At the Pages' I entirely changed my point of view concerning music and books. And at the Nevins', where I was ill, I changed my doctor and took stuff which I felt sure would poison me just to please them."

"I ate cheese, which I abhor, and gave up fruit, which I like, at the Pisks'. I slept with closed windows at Great-aunt Maria's because she is afraid of a breath of air, and I drank twenty-one pints of hot water the four days I was at Cousin Thomas' to 'flush my system.'"

"No," said Mary in a firm voice. "I pay no more visits for months to come. Home keeping youth may have homely wits, but if I go about much more I shall not have any wits at all."—Youth's Companion.

TRUSTING TO FATE.

An Incident That Gives an Insight Into Russian Character.

A few years ago I was taking a country walk in Kovno. The road lay through a dense forest, and the day was oppressively hot. I arrived at last at a crossroad and sat down under the shade of the trees to rest. A signpost pointed its two arms down the converging roads. On one of them was inscribed "14 versts to Janova," on the other "17 versts to Shadova." Presently the creaking of wheels and the slow "clop, clop" of a horse's hoofs on the road behind roused me. A cart piled high with tinware was coming down the road, with the driver perched on the top of the load.

"Good day, brother," I called out as the cart, with its sorry horse, came abreast of me. The man returned my salute, and the horse, glad of any excuse to rest his weary legs, came to a standstill in the middle of the road.

"Which way are you going?" I asked. "To Janova. There is a market there tomorrow."

"But there is also a market in Shadova," I answered, "and it is a more important place than Janova."

"So it is, so it is," the driver replied, with perfect indifference.

"What have you for sale?" "Plenty of good tinware, as you can see, brother. I have worked for six weeks to make this cartload."

"Well, good luck to you and your tinware," I said, pulling and eating the berries within reach. "Will you take it to Janova or Shadova?"

The man picked up the bit of cord which served as reins and prepared to go on.

"I shall leave that to my horse," he answered callously.

The lumbering wagon moved off and finally passed out of sight down the Janova road, which the horse had elected to take.—St. James' Gazette.

Memorial to a Robber.

In the little town of Forlimpopoli, near Bologna, there is a memorial tablet in the Municipal theater to the memory of a famous robber chieftain named Passatore. The reason why the theater is the home of his memorial is that in it was performed his most famous exploit. In September, 1854, while one of Rossini's operas was being performed in the presence of all the local beauty and fashion, Passatore and his band "held up" the audience and robbed them of all their valuables to the last penny.

Great Heads and Little Wits.

Great men are usually said to have great memories, but it does not follow that all who have great memories are great men. I remember an idiot in Ohio who was a great curiosity many years ago. He knew the whole Bible by heart from beginning to end, and if any verse was read or repeated to him he could tell exactly in what book and chapter it was to be found and its verse number in the chapter. He was considered a great marvel in this particular, but in every other he was a mental imbecile and could not be trusted even to feed himself.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

A Dangerous Cargo.

Lime is one of the most dangerous of cargoes for a vessel to carry. When it catches fire, as it frequently does, in spite of the greatest precautions against the admission of water into the hold, it is almost impossible to extinguish it. The only method that ever avails is to stop every crack with soap, so that no air can reach the lime. Sometimes this will stop the fire, but often these fires will burn for weeks, till the vessel sinks beneath the water, a mass of charred embers holding together. When a vessel with a cargo of lime once catches fire it is sure death to go below. Not long ago a schooner with a cargo of this commodity caught fire and was sealed up as tightly as possible. The crew was composed of the captain and his two sons. One day the latter went to sleep on the deck, and their father imprudently entered his cabin, shutting the door behind him. When they awakened and found their father missing they, supposing that he had fallen overboard, sailed the ship for home, quite unconscious that they were bearing the body of their father with them.

Writing and Dictation.

The modern method of letter writing composition through the agency of the stenographer is having a peculiar effect upon the popular use of the language. It must be evident to even the noncritical observer that carelessness and diffuseness of expression have become a feature and a fault of correspondence, from the reproach of which it was quite free in the earlier days, when pen and ink were directly employed by the individual to the end of giving form and coherence to his idea. Probably when dictation under the present system becomes more of a fixed habit and institution the human mind will become so accustomed to it that it will operate more rapidly and as accurately with such assistance as under the old plan in which the writer only dictated to himself. Yet to him with whom pen and ink have always been potent solvents of thought the change involved in dictation must bring with it a serious embarrassment in the matter of adequately denoting one's thoughts.—Philadelphia Ledger.

An Ingenious Printer.

It requires a great deal of ingenuity to become a successful printer. Boys with printing presses and ambitious to develop into great printers should remember this and exercise their inventive qualities at every opportunity.

A story is told of a Prague printer who got himself out of a very disagreeable dilemma by the use of his ingenious mind. He was once called upon to print a report of the board of trade of his native city in the two languages of the country, German and Czech, and the representatives of each nationality strenuously desired that their tongue should occupy the first of the parallel columns on each page. The wary printer got out of his dilemma by printing one column upside down throughout the book and arranging the titles accordingly, so that each language had a front column on every page.

How to Walk.

There is no virtue in a dawdling saunter. The slow and languid dragging one foot after the other, which some people call walking, would tire an athlete. It utterly exhausts a weak person, and that is the reason why many delicate persons think they cannot walk. To derive any benefit from the exercise it is necessary to walk with a light, elastic step, which swings the weight of the body so easily from one leg to the other that its weight is not felt and which produces a healthy glow, showing that the sluggish blood is stirred to action in the most remote veins.—Family Doctor.

The Poor Artist's Provider.

It is related of the late Mr. Whistler that he went one day with an artist in Paris who was not overburdened with this world's goods and was surprised at the sumptuous lunch provided. On asking him how he managed to live so well his host replied: "I have a pet monkey, which I let down from my window by a rope into that of my landlady and trust to Providence. Sometimes Jacko returns with a loaf, sometimes with a ham. His visits are full of surprises—one never knows what may appear."—Leslie's Weekly.

Emerson's Story of Alcott.

I asked Alcott what he would do when he came to the gate and St. Peter demanded his ticket. "What have you to show to justify your right to live?" I said. "Where is your book, your picture. You have done nothing in the world." "No," he said, "but somewhere on a hill up there will be Plato and Paul and Socrates talking, and they will say, 'Send Alcott over here; we want him with us.'"—Rebecca Harding Davis' "Bits of Gossip."

He Saw Double.

Naggs—What did your wife say when she let you in at 2 o'clock in the morning? Faggs—I was so frightened I didn't hear what she said. Naggs—What frightened you? Faggs—I thought I was a bigamist.—Chicago News.

QUICKSANDS.

It is the Presence of Water That Makes Them So Yielding.

Quicksand—i. e., moving or living sand—is ordinary sand so saturated with water that it will not bear any considerable weight. Sand that is dry or not very wet becomes on being pressed closely compacted and less yielding, but where there is sufficient water mixed with it to keep the grains apart it does not cohere and yields to any weight.

Quicksands, then, are sands from which the water is not drained away, either because a constant current passes through them or because there is a dense substratum of clay or rock. They are commonly found near the mouths of large rivers or where there are springs or on flat beaches.

Probably those who fall into quicksands would not be engulfed if they kept quite quiet. As soon as the sand reached their chin they would be supported rather more than if they were in ordinary water, owing to the greater density of the mixture of sand and water which constitutes a quicksand.

about next year's football season, he having been chosen by the faculty to succeed Prof. Johnson, who resigned as manager of that branch of athletics.

Several of the cadets made speeches. Capt. Hanna spoke of the team he expected to lead this spring. Messrs. Price W. A., Street, Born, Reese G. L., and Burns H. E., made speeches in which they expressed the general opinion of the corps. Hackney was the last of the students to speak, and after a few additional words from Dr. Lanham and Prof. Kyle, the meeting came to a close.

All the corps seems to have the proper spirit and expect to keep it. The athletic field will be finished in time for the baseball season.

KILLS GERMS OF CATARRH.

Hyomei Goes to the Root of the Disease and Makes Astonishing Cures.

Catarrh cannot be cured by the use of pills, liquid medicines and so-called system tonics. Under such treatment the germs of the disease will still live in the air passages and increase and multiply.

Hyomei is the only scientific and thorough way to cure catarrh. Killing the germs in the air passages, it enters the blood with the oxygen destroys the microbes in the blood and effectually drives from the system all traces of catarrhal poison.

Thousands of testimonials have been given as to the astonishing cures made by the remedy.

Mrs. Le Rendu, 76 Western avenue, Cleveland, Ohio, writes: "I believe Hyomei saved my life. I am better now than I have been in thirty years. Many doctors, both in England and France treated me for catarrh, but I was not cured until I used Hyomei."

Probably the strongest evidence that can be offered as to the powers of Hyomei to cure catarrh is the fact that E. J. Jenkins will agree to refund the money if you say Hyomei has not cured you.

The complete Hyomei outfit costs but $1.00, consisting of an inhaler, dropper and sufficient Hyomei to last several weeks. This will effect a cure in ordinary cases, but for chronic and deep-seated cases of catarrh, longer use may be necessary, and then extra bottles of Hyomei can be obtained for 50c.

When Animals Go Bad.

An animal trainer says that "no man living knows all about animals or more than a very little about them. Some who are dead thought they knew. That is the reason they are dead. Only those who realize their ignorance and supplement it with untiring watchfulness last long at this queer business that I'm in."

"Sooner or later most animals of the cat kind become utterly intractable and remain so. 'Going bad' is the professional term for this. Rarely do they return to their old amenable ways. Henceforth they are of no use as performers and are relegated to the exhibition cages, for any man entering the cage of a lion or tiger that has gone bad is instantly attacked. This is one of the terrors of the trade. Symptoms of the change of heart are apparent enough sometimes, particularly in animals which are growing old. Occasionally, however, some young beast, formerly as obedient as you could wish, will turn murderous without cause or warning. If her trainer gets out alive he is lucky. If he ever enters her cage again he's a fool."—McClure's.

The Noisy Birds of the Night.

All the night birds are noisy. They cannot consort with one another in happy companies, as do the warblers and thrushes and finches, and sing and whisper, but must call loudly and long to one another in the darkness. On coasts where petrels and certain other night hunting sea birds abound, all day sitting on their eggs or hiding in burrows, you will hear no sound from morning till night, but after dark the air is filled with shrill cries. The loud, reiterated calling of the southern chuck-will's-widow and of its northern cousin is familiar. A whippoorwill will sound its cry several hundred times in succession without a pause. Owls hoot or utter a harsh sort of laughter, rarely pleasant to listen to, and night herons and bitterns squawk and boom. Sweet songs occasionally heard in the darkness are those of wakeful day birds, as the nightingale or our own oven bird.—Ernest Ingersoll in Harper's Magazine.

Today our great cities show proportionately a higher average of dress and general striving after personal attractiveness among both men and women than the great cities of any other country.

Success depends in the largest measure upon health and the personal impression one makes upon his fellow men, and properly to develop and to maintain the "points" that make for personal attractiveness is to develop and maintain health.

For example, how many men and women stop drinking and overeating because fat is fatal to good looks? The struggle to keep looking young is a struggle to keep in perfect health. And what a blessing that is to the present and all future generations!

The price of good looks is right living, and the reward of right living is health.—Saturday Evening Post.

Carlyle's Courteous Side.

In the "Retrospects" of Professor William Knight of the University of St. Andrews are some interesting anecdotes. Among these is a bit from a letter by Dr. MacLagan, who attended Thomas Carlyle during Carlyle's last years: "My personal experience of Carlyle was this: He was the most courteous man I ever met. Never once did that old man fail to rise up to receive me nor allow me to leave his room without walking to the door with me while he had strength to do so. After death all the ruggedness and the wrinkles disappeared from his face. But for the beard it was like that of a woman, so delicate and beautifully molded it was."

Protect the Back.

People are more likely to catch cold in the back than they are generally aware of, and if neglected it may prove a serious matter. The back, especially between the shoulders, should always be kept well covered, and never lean with your back against anything that is cold. Never sit with the back in a direct draft, and when warming it by the fire do not continue to keep the back exposed to the heat after it has become comfortably warm. To do so is debilitating.—Journal of Health.

"Burned" by Cold.

Intense cold, as is well known, burns—if we may use the term—like heat. If a "drop" of air at a temperature of 150 degrees below zero were placed upon the hand it would have the same effect as would the same quantity of molten steel or lead. Every one who has the care of horses ought to know the pain inflicted by placing a frosted bit in a horse's mouth. It burns like hot iron.

Uninterested.

"Over there, ladies and gentlemen," said the guide to the party of "personally conducted," "are the famous mud baths of—"

"Don't interest me," said the gentleman from the United States indifferently. "I've run for office too many times at home."—Puck.

His Gentlemanly Resentment.

The Judge—You called him a liar, did you? How did he take it? The Colonel—He agreeably surprised me, sub, by acting like a perfect gentleman. He knocked me down, sub.—Chicago Tribune.

A Jilt.

"Is Miss Richly an athletic girl?" "I should say so! She threw over one of the heavyweights of the football team."—Exchange.

CLOTHIERS and FURNISHERS

One more proof that all is not gold that glitters is found in the fact that much of the gold lettering seen on signs, and also much of the gilding of picture frames, has no gold whatever about it. Among laymen the opinion prevails that all such decoration requires the actual use of gold leaf, but the reality is different, and a substitute that defies detection has been widely used for some time. The exact effect of gold is secured by using a leaf of either silver or aluminum under yellow paint. The metal backing gives the required luster, and the paint gives the required color. This method cannot be used in all cases, because the paint is of peculiar quality and requires putting on with an even thickness. For this reason it is generally applicable only to flat surfaces. Parts of a gilded picture frame which are molded into waving surfaces generally require genuine gold leaf to cover them.—Philadelphia Record.

Plant a Tree.

When eating a good pear or apple save the seeds and plant them either in a flower pot, where they will germinate before long, or else directly in the garden, when they will come up next spring. To prevent their loss the place must be covered as a mark. It takes a number of years before they bear fruit, but to see the progress of growth from year to year is always interesting. People often think it is not worth while for them to plant trees. They will not live to have fruit of them and so neglect it entirely. But some one will enjoy the harvest. It is just the individual egotism which causes so much unhappiness and affects all classes of society in many ways.—Hartford Times.

Grice Brothers, who previously owned the Exchange Shaving Parlor and City Shaving Parlor, have also purchased J. E. Webb's shop in the Dunn & Daly block, and will continue to run all three places under the same painstaking and liberal policy which has characterized their business in the past.

A GENTLE REPULSE.

The Easy Way Lincoln Once Got Rid of an Office Seeker.

"There was an ignorant man," said a senator, "who once applied to Lincoln for the post of doorkeeper to the house. This man had no right to ask Lincoln for anything. It was necessary to repulse him. But Lincoln repulsed him gently and whimsically without hurting his feelings in this way:

"So you want to be doorkeeper to the house, eh?"

"Yes, Mr. President."

"Well, have you ever been a doorkeeper? Have you ever had any experience of doorkeeping?"

"Well, no—no actual experience, sir."

"Any theoretical experience? Any instructions in the duties and ethics of doorkeeping?"

"Umh—no."

"Have you ever attended lectures on doorkeeping?"

"No, sir."

"Have you read any text book on the subject?"

"No."

"Have you conversed with any one who has read such a book?"

"No, sir. I'm afraid not, sir."

"Well, then, my friend, don't you see that you haven't a single qualification for this important post?" said Lincoln in a reproachful tone.

"Yes, I do," said the applicant, and he took leave humbly, almost gratefully.—Chicago Record-Herald.

THE EARTH'S MOTION.

Why We Do Not Feel the World's Rapid Flight Through Space.

We have no direct sensation of the earth's motion because of its absolute smoothness and freedom from all jar or vibration, and, as everything—land, sea and air—is carried along at the same rate as ourselves, there is nothing to afford us any evidence that we are moving at all until we make reference to something altogether detached from the earth—as sun, moon or stars—and even then, until reasoning and mathematical calculation are brought to bear, it is these bodies and not ourselves which seem to move.

Gliding in a boat down a smooth river it is often impossible to perceive that we are moving except by reference to objects on the banks, and even then it is difficult to resist the impression that they are in motion while we are at rest.

The mere detail of speed does not affect the question, and, although the earth is rushing through space at the rate of eighteen miles a second, the motion, infinitely smoother than that of a boat on placid water, is absolutely imperceptible.

"Down by the Rio Grande"

The Annual Event
of Two Nations:
Yaqui-George Washington
The "Laredos."

Some years since the citizens of Laredo, Texas, and Nuevo Laredo, Mexico, conceived the idea of fittingly celebrating George Washington's Birthday (February 22) by suitable "Mexican-American" fiestas and parades and from a small source this has grown to a MAGNIFICENT ANNUAL EVENT unsurpassed in its splendid surroundings and interesting particulars by anything of a similar nature.

Internationally in its character, located on the border line between the Great Republics occurring at a season of the year when business cares press lightly, and at a time when weather conditions in that locality are ideal this event offers unsurpassed inducements to the pleasure seeker.

This year the festivities will consist of four days of continuous activities, February 21st, 22nd, 23rd and 24th, and the program, which is very elaborate, will comprise many new and interesting features, among which may be mentioned FAMOUS SPANISH BULL FIGHTS, GRAND CATTLE ROPING CONTEST, P. O. BALL, BASE BALL, COCKING, MAIN, torchlight parades, embedding type in Mexican and Indian rivers, a parade with floats on Rio Grande River, a spectacular reproduction of Gen. Washington crossing the Delaware, Military drills and display evolutions. Historical Pageants and Trades-Display, Flower Carnival, U. S. and Mexican Troops and Bands.

For this occasion low excursion rates will be in effect to Laredo, also for the benefit of those who desire to see more of Mexican life and customs, arrangements have been made for the sale of excursion tickets to MONTEREY, MEXICO, with ten (10) days' limit, permitting stop over at LAREDO in order to witness the International Celebration.

A WONDERFUL ANIMAL.

The Turtle Is a Peculiar Creature in Many Respects.
Almost alone among God's creatures, the turtle has but a single enemy—man. It does not seem to matter to the turtle whether he sits beneath the surface for an hour or a week, nor does it trouble him to spend an equal time on land if the need arises. He is neither fish, flesh nor fowl, yet his flesh partakes of the characteristics of all three. Eating seems a mere superfluous duty with him, since for weeks at a time he may be headed up in a barrel (with the bung out) and emerge after his long fast apparently none the worse for his enforced abstinence from food, from light and almost from air, and, finally, it may be truly said that of all the higher, warm blooded organisms there is none so tenacious of life as the turtle. I can truly say that I have seen the flesh cleared out of a turtle shell and hung up on a tree, where for hours the quivering, convulsive movements of the muscles went on. Not only so, but on one occasion only the head and tail were left attached to the shell. Some time had elapsed since the meat had been cut out of the carapace, and no one could have imagined that any life remained in the extremities. But a young Dane, noticing that the down hanging head had its mouth wide open, very foolishly inserted two fingers between those horny mandibles. They closed, and our shipmate was two fingers short.
The edges of the turtle's jaw had taken them off clean, with only the muscular power remaining in the head. Signor Redi once cut a turtle's head off and noted that it lived for twenty-three days without a head, and another whose brain he removed lived for six months, apparently unconscious that it had suffered any loss.—Leslie's Monthly.

BALLOON SPIDERS.

They Voyage at Great Heights Over Sea as Well as Land.
Given a steady breeze and a free course, there is practically no limit to the distance which a ballooning spider may traverse. The writer has taken orb weavers from their snuggeries under divers sheltering projections at the highest attainable point on the dome of St. Peter's in Rome, whither they had doubtless been carried by the wind when younglings. One may see flocks of gossamer aloft at far greater heights. Seafaring folk often note spider balloons speeding by them at sea or entangled upon various parts of the vessel. Darwin, in his famous voyage of the Beagle, when sixty miles from land saw great numbers of small spiders with their webs. When they first came in contact with the rigging they were seated upon threads, and while hanging to these the slightest breath of air would bear them out of sight. Thus, though so far from land, the wee voyagers were still moving on over the main.
A steamship captain told the writer of a like observation made by him.
While sailing along the eastern coast of South America during the month of March his ship was covered with innumerable spider webs. He was then more than 200 miles from land, about 400 miles south of the equator. The wind was blowing from the continent.
"The spiders seemed like elongated balls," said the captain, "with a sort of umbrella canopy above them. They settled upon the sails and rigging and finally disappeared as they came. You know," he added, "that it is not unusual for birds to be blown out to sea.
How much easier for a spider, provided he has the means to keep himself suspended in the air!"—H. C. McCook, LL. D., in Harper's Magazine.

Bees Used in War.

There are at least two recorded instances in which bees have been used as weapons of defense in war. When the Roman general Lucullus was warring against Mithridates, he sent a force against the city of Themiscyra.
As they besieged the walls the inhabitants threw down on them myriads of swarms of bees. These at once began an attack, which resulted in the raising of the siege. These doughty little insects were also once used with equal success in England. Chester was besieged by the Danes and Norwegians, but its Saxon defenders threw down on them the beehives of the town, and the siege was soon raised.

Times Have Changed.

Once upon a time a superstition existed that a lady ought to blame herself if a man whom she did not intend to accept proposed to her, but that, should such an unpleasant incident occur, it was at least not to be made a subject of gossip among her acquaintances. Parents thought it incumbent upon them to let a man understand in time if they did not wish him as a son-in-law. It is needless to remark that such honorable reticence and kindly prudence are quite out of fashion.—London Standard.

Why He Remained Home.

Model Husband (boastfully)—Yes, gentlemen, I've been married ten years and never spent a night away from home yet.
Doubting Thomas—Large and interesting family, eh?
"Only three of us."
"Have one child, eh?"
"No; the other is my wife's mother."

Optimistic.

Young Lawyer—Well, the judge has rendered a decision in our favor in that will case. Older Partner—Never mind.
The other side will appeal, and we will continue to get fees out of it.—Puck.

Honesty is the best policy, but he who is governed by that maxim is not an honest man.—Whately.

PRE-EMPTED BY BIRDS.

The Noddies That Own Bird Key, in the Gulf of Mexico.
Out in the gulf of Mexico sixty-five miles from Key West toward the setting sun rise half a dozen barren sand bars from the exquisite turquoise blue waters. One of these, Garden Key, is a government fort and coaling station; another is the Loggerhead Key, our last outpost toward Cuba and Central America. Other islets are untenanted save when the great sea turtles crawl.
One alone, Bird Key, is pre-empted by the birds. It would be hard to find a more desolate or isolated region.
Though the climate is warm throughout the year, it is not until May that the feathered hosts arrive from the far south at this sandy rendezvous. In the van come the noddies, a few about the 1st of May and the rest within a few days. A week later the sooty terns pour in, and it is said that within a week of their arrival both kinds begin to lay. At the time of our coming nearly all the birds had eggs and were devoting themselves to their family cares.
To reach the buildings from the little landing place we had to pass through a tract of bushes, and here it was that I saw the first nests of the noddies. Upon the tops or in the forks of the bushes each pair had built a rather rude yet fairly substantial platform of sticks, only slightly hollowed, and upon each one sat a dark gray bird. There was something about these graceful little creatures that instantly took me by storm, a case of love at first sight. The noddy is very much like a dove—except for its webbed feet—in size, in form, in the softness of its plumage, the expression of its large dark eyes and its gentle, confiding ways. There is no wild affright as the stranger approaches. Just a shadow of fear is evident, but the birds sit quietly on their nests, hoping and trusting, and do not fly unless approached almost within arm's reach. Then they flit gently away, alighting upon a neighboring bush until the intruder has withdrawn, when they return directly to their charge. It seemed remarkable to find birds so perfectly tame.—Outing.

PITH AND POINT.

When a friend tells you of his wrongs be wants sympathy and not an argument.

Before a man's first baby is a week old he knows more than he had ever dreamed about.

Speaking of "secret sorrows," it is a good plan to keep them so, as telling only multiplies them.

When a man wants to give you advice you can't lose anything by listening, but you will make an enemy by refusing.

A man occasionally breaks even.
When it comes to wait paper the wife does the picking and the husband does the kicking.

Every one should have saved up enough money to take things a little easier by the time the age comes for taking a nap in a chair.—Atchison Globe.

Trained Tortoises.

Japanese and Korean showmen in addition to their skill as jugglers and acrobats display a truly marvelous skill in teaching animals tricks. They not only exhibit educated bears, spaniels, monkeys and goats, but also trained birds and, what is the more astonishing of all, trick fish.

One of the most curious examples of patient training is an exhibit by an old Korean boatman of a dozen drilled tortoises. Directed by his songs and a small metal drum, they march in line, execute various evolutions and conclude by climbing upon a low table, the larger ones forming of their own accord a bridge for the smaller, to which the feat would otherwise be impossible. When they have all mounted, they dispose themselves in three or four piles like so many plates.

The Study of Nature.

I confess I have not much sympathy with the laboratory study of nature except for economical purposes. Nature under the dissecting knife and the microscope yields important secrets to the students of biology, but the unprofessional students want but little of all this. I know a young woman who took a postgraduate course in biology at a noted summer school, and the one thing she learned was that certain bacilli were found only in the aqueous humor of the eyes of white mice. The world is full of curious facts like that,
that have no human interest or educational value whatever.—John Burroughs in Country Life in America.

None Better.

Mrs. Wise—I wouldn't have bought cigars for my husband if I were you.
A man doesn't like his wife to do that.
Mrs. McBride—I know it's risky unless you're very careful to get the best, but I was careful. Mrs. Wise—Were you?
Mrs. McBride—Yes. I picked out a box called "Finest made." There couldn't possibly be anything better than that,
you know.

Pride of Ancestry.

"We can't afford to recognize them.
Their ancestors were in trade."
"Weren't ours?"
"Of course, but our trade ancestors are two generations further back than theirs."—Chicago Post.

Mean.

Miss Mugley—I always try to retire before midnight. I don't like to miss my beauty sleep. Miss Pepprey—You really should try harder. You certainly don't get enough of it.—Exchange.

I've never any pity for conceited people, because I think they carry their comfort about with them.—George Elliot.

Insanity, Death or Health?

No. 2307 Locust Street,
St. Louis, Mo., March 29, 1903.

I was a victim of sleeplessness and extreme nervousness for eighteen months, unable to get a proper night's rest and feeling tired and worn out continually. I was easily irritated and hysterical at the slightest provocation, but Wine of Cardui gave me great relief. Within a week after I began using it I had my first real good night's rest that I had had for months. My appetite was soon restored, my general system toned up and nervousness became a thing of the past.
I am so pleased to acknowledge the great curative merit of your health giving medicine and gladly endorse it.

WINE of CARDUI

We want to call your attention to the complete and immediate relief Mrs. Best secured by taking Wine of Cardui. Within a week after she began taking Wine of Cardui, Mrs. Best had her first good night's rest for eighteen months. Her restlessness was caused by nervousness and Wine of Cardui, "the best menstrual regulator, has no superior in the world as a medicine to soothe a woman's nerves. Nervousness and hysteria are warnings of the approach of insanity and if relief is not secured the end can only be the asylum or the grave. With such an outlook as this before her, no suffering woman can reasonably refuse to give Wine of Cardui a trial.
It brings a cure that thousands of women have sought for in vain. Will you secure a bottle of Wine of Cardui today and start treatment?
